THE HUNTINGTON

CORPORATE PARTNERS

The Huntington's Corporate Partners receive special benefits for employees, executives, and clients, while helping to keep The Huntington accessible to the community at large. The Huntington is an institution steeped in long-standing tradition with a loyal family of patrons. As a Huntington Corporate Partner, your company will become a member of this singular group and enjoy opportunities to engage and interact with new audiences.

In return for providing critical annual support, Corporate Partners gain the ability to:

- ❑ Create customized opportunities for clients, including complimentary access, VIP tours, and private receptions
- ❑ Attend private Huntington exhibition openings, programs, and events
- ❑ Expand marketing and public relations activities in a targeted manner
- ❑ Enhance brand recognition, increase philanthropic presence, and improve client loyalty
- ❑ Develop rewarding educational and volunteer opportunities for staff

CONTACT:

We understand that you have particular goals in mind, and we are committed to working with you to maximize the benefits available through a relationship with The Huntington. As a result, our partnership program is flexible, and benefits can be tailored to meet your specific needs.

THE HUNTINGTON

About the Huntington

The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens was founded in 1919 by Henry E. Huntington—an entrepreneur, philanthropist, and chief architect of a decade of explosive growth in Southern California. Today, The Huntington is the most heavily used independent research library outside of the Library of Congress and the fourth-most visited cultural institution in Los Angeles County. The Huntington estate encompasses 207 acres and includes: The Huntington Art Gallery, the Huntingtons' original residence built in 1911; the newly expanded 45,000-square-foot Virginia Steele Scott Galleries of American Art; the MaryLou and George Boone Gallery, which houses special exhibitions; the original 1919 Library, with major additions that include a public exhibition hall and research complex; and 120 acres of botanical gardens landscaped into a dozen themed areas. The Huntington's mission is to encourage research and promote education in the arts, humanities, and botanical sciences.
